Diaries of an Unfinished Revolution: The Voices from Tunisia to Damascus
Edited by Matthew Cassel • Translated by Robin Moger and Georgina Collins
• 978-0-14-312515-0 • $16.00 • PB • Jan 2014 • Penguin • An English PEN Award-winning collection of writing on the Arab Spring with moving personal testimony composed by journalists and participants in the revolutions in Tunisia, Egypt, Libya, Algeria, Yemen, Bahrain, Saudia Arabia, and Syria and edited by a journalist and photographer who covers the Middle East for Al Jazeera. • “If ever there is a book that should be championed, it is Diaries of an Unfinished Revolution ... Among the most moving, inspiring, and revealing pieces of non-fiction we’ve come across in some time.”—The National

This Machine Kills Secrets: Julian Assange, the CypherPunks, and their Fight to Empower Andy Greenberg • 978-0-14-218049-5 • $16.00 • PB • Oct 2013 • Plume • The first full account of the cypherpunks who are changing our world, by the Forbes reporter whose work has made global headlines. • “Greenberg’s book is the story of a revolution in societal transparency. It’s an expose of the characters that have put secrets in peril. For those that seek transparency, it’s a riveting tale. For those that must keep secrets, be warned: this book holds up a mirror to your worst fears.”—Hugh Thompson, Chief Security Strategist, Adjunct Professor of Computer Science Columbia University and Florida Institute of Technology

Secret Warriors: The Inside Story of Blackwater and the Unsung Heroes of the War on Terror
Erik Prince • 978-1-59420-416-6 • $27.95 • HC • Sep 2013 • Portfolio • The founder of Blackwater offers the gripping, previously untold story of the world’s most controversial military contractor. Prince’s narrative includes newly-revealed details about many controversial events. It debunks myths that may have been spread by TV shows and movies. It honors our armed forces while challenging the Pentagon’s top leadership. Above all, it will make people rethink exactly who the “good guys” and “bad guys” have been since 9/11.

Floating City: A Rogue Sociologist Lost and Found in New York’s Underground Economy
Sudhir Venkatesh • 978-1-59420-416-6 • $27.95 • HC • Sep 2013 • Penguin Press • The bestselling author of Gang Leader for a Day reveals the secrets of New York’s underground economy in this memoir of sociological investigation. follows Venkatesh’s journeys through the “vast invisible continent” of New York’s underground economy, an unseen world linking and strengthening the enormous diversity of a new global city in the throes of becoming. Floating City reveals the real winners and losers of the new economy, the thriving elites who pull the levers of power and the desperate laborers who always risk falling off the bottom. Propelled by Venkatesh’s interviews with hundreds of prostitutes, madams, drug dealers, and immigrants, Floating City is the ultimate journey into the true workings of America’s most diverse and influential city.

Theodore Ross • 978-0-14-218039-6 • $16.00 • PB • Sep 2013 • Plume • A memoir tackling a fundamental question both religious and personal: what makes someone Jewish? • “A brilliant American odyssey, one that is both inside and outside of traditions both national and religious; it’s also often very funny, and always very empathic.”—Rivka Galchen, author of Atmospheric Disturbances
The Half-Life of Facts: Why Everything We Know Has an Expiration Date
Samuel Arbesman • 978-1-59184-651-2 • $16.00 • PB • Sep 2013 • Penguin • Arbesman shows us how knowledge in most fields evolves systematically and predictably, and how this evolution unfolds in a fascinating way that can have a powerful impact on our lives. • “Easily one of the best books of the year on science.”—Bloomberg • “Arbesman’s enthusiasm and humor maintains our interest in subjects many readers may not have encountered before…[The Half-Life of Facts] does what popular science should do—both engages and entertains.”—Kirkus Reviews
Five Billion Years of Solitude: The Search for Life Among the Stars
Lee Billings • 978-1-61723-006-6 • $27.95 • HC • Oct 2013 • Current • An intimate history of Earth and the quest for life beyond the solar system. • Since its formation nearly five billion years ago, our planet has been the sole living world in a vast and silent universe. Now, Earth’s isolation is coming to an end. Over the past two decades, astronomers have discovered thousands of “exoplanets” orbiting other stars, including some that could be similar to our own world. In a first-hand account of this unfolding revolution, Billings draws on interviews with top researchers and reveals how the search for other Earth-like planets is not only a scientific pursuit, but also a reflection of our culture’s timeless hopes, dreams, and fears.
The Particle at the End of the Universe: How the Hunt for the Higgs Boson Leads Us to the Edge of a New World
Sean Carroll • 978-0-8-14-218030-3 • $16.00 • PB • Sep 2013 • Plume • “With his trademark wit and lucidity, Carroll delivers the story of the search for the elusive Higgs boson…Whether explaining complex physics like field theory and symmetry or the workings of particle accelerators, Carroll’s clarity and unbridled enthusiasm reveal the pure excitement of discovery as much as they illuminate the facts.”—Publishers Weekly • “Carroll keeps it real, getting at the complex guts of cutting-edge cosmology in discussions that will challenge fans of Hawking’s A Brief History of Time.”—The Washington Post
