Charlie LeDuff

DETROIT
An American Autopsy

With the steel-eyed reportage that has become his trademark, Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist LeDuff sets out to uncover what destroyed his city. "One cannot read Mr. LeDuff’s amalgam of memoir and reportage and not be shaken by the cold eye he casts on hard truths... A little gonzo, a little gumshoe, some gawker, some good-Samaritan—it is hard to ignore reporting like Mr. LeDuff’s."—The Wall Street Journal. "An edgy portrait of the decline, destruction, and possible redemption of his hometown….LeDuff writes with honesty and compassion about a city that's destroying itself—and breaking his heart."—Publishers Weekly (starred review).

Sudhir Venkatesh

FLOATING CITY
A Rogue Sociologist Lost and Found in New York’s Underground Economy

Venkatesh journeys through the "vast invisible continent" of New York’s underground economy, an unseen world linking and strengthening the enormous diversity of a new global city in the throes of becoming. Floating City reveals the real winners and losers of the new economy, the thriving elites who pull the levers of power and the desperate laborers who always risk falling off the bottom. Propelled by Venkatesh’s interviews with hundreds of prostitutes, madams, drug dealers, and immigrants, Floating City is the ultimate journey into the true workings of America’s most diverse and influential city.

POPULUXE

From Tailfins and TV Dinners to Barbie Dolls and Fallout Shelters: A Decade of Modern Design

The decade from 1954 to 1964 was an era of one of America’s great shopping sprees; in the newly created world of suburbia, everything a family owned was provisional: one always had the hope of being able to move up the ladder to something better. Thomas Hine calls it “Populuxe”—populism and popularity and luxury, plus a totally unnecessary “e” to give it a little class; the word itself as synthetic as the world it describes.

THE TANNING OF AMERICA
How Hip-Hop Created a Culture That Rewrote the Rules of the New Economy
The business marketing genius at the forefront of today’s entertainment marketing revolution helps corporate America get hip to today’s new consumer—the tan generation. Exploring how the “tanning” phenomenon raised a generation of black, Hispanic, white, and Asian consumers who have the same “mental complex-ion” based on shared experiences and values, Stoute argues that there is a language gap that must be bridged in order to engage the most powerful market force in the history of commerce.

JERUSALEM 1913

_The Origins of the Arab-Israeli Conflict_

Though the origins of the Arab-Israeli conflict have traditionally been traced to the British Mandate (1920–1948) that ended with the creation of the Israeli state, a new generation of scholars has taken the investigation further back, to the Ottoman period. The first popular account of this key era, _Jerusalem 1913_ shows us a cosmopolitan city whose religious tolerance crumbled before the onset of Zionism and its corresponding nationalism on both sides—a conflict that could have been resolved were it not for the onset of World War I. “Richly insightful, highly readable.” —San Francisco Journal. Zadie Smith

NW

Zadie Smith’s brilliant tragi-comic new novel follows four Londoners—Leah, Natalie, Felix and Nathan—as they try to make adult lives outside of Caldwell, the council estate of their childhood. Depicting the modern urban zone, Smith’s NW is a quietly devastating novel of encounters, mercurial and vital, like the city itself. “NW represents a deliberate undoing; an unpacking of Smith’s abundant narrative gifts to find a deeper truth, audacious and painful as that truth may be. The result is that rare thing, a book that is radical and passionate and real.”—The New York Times.
