T H O M AS JUDT
Thinking the Twentieth Century
Thinking the Twentieth Century is the final book of the renowned historian’s powerful six-volume compendium, spanning the modern world from the 1870s to the present. Judt’s magisterial argument—"the twentieth century was the century of the rise of Europe to global domination and the revolution in the nature of imperialism

Berlin 1961
Kennedy, Khrushchev, and the Most Dangerous Peace on Earth
A powerful account of the day that changed the landscape of Europe—and the lessons for today.

PLUTARCH
The Age of Alexander
TRANSLATED BY T. S. DODGSON
New Translations and Notes by VICTOR T. DUFF
Plutarchís parallel biographies of the great men in Greek and Roman history present a striking contrast between the heroism of the Greek heroes and the political cunning of the Romans. This new edition contains a full index and a new introduction.

RICHARD MILES
Carthage Must Be Destroyed
Drawing on a wealth of new archaeological research, Miles vividly brings to life this lost empire—from its origins among the Phoenician settlements of the coast of Africa to its last days.

PATRICIA SKINNER
The Rise and Fall of an Ancient Civilization
Portrays two of the most colorful and powerful figures of the age—Julius Caesar and Alexander—and combines this with a comprehensive survey of the late ancient world. Featuring the latest findings from newly discovered sites in Italy, the Middle East, and Egypt, this book brings the Alexandrian and Roman empires vividly to life.

NORMAN DAVIES
Vanishing Kingdoms
The Rise and Fall of States and Nations
An evocative account of Eastern European history. It is the story of a nation that has repeatedly risked its life for the ungrateful mobs of Syracuse; why Demosthenes repeatedly risked his life for the ungrateful mobs of Syracuse; why Demosthenes
