R. Dwayne Betts
A QUESTION OF FREEDOM
A Memoir of Learning, Survival, and Coming of Age in Prison
Incarcerated at sixteen for carjacking, Betts reflects upon his 8-year term in Virginia’s worst prisons, seeking to understand how his past led to his crime. “Betts was incarcerated...[in] a place in which he also discovered the incredible power of books and reading. He’s written his own life-changing book, which may well prevent other young men from making that detour to prison. A searing and ultimately uplifting story.”—Hill Harper, author of Letters to a Young Brother.

Sloane Crosley
HOW DID YOU GET THIS NUMBER?
Crosley continues her adventures living in New York City, while side trips to Paris, Portugal, and Alaska reveal a resourceful Everywoman equipped to fend off any potential mundanity in maturity. “Reading like the diary entries of a thirtysomething, Crosley’s essays are brutally honest about her flaws as well as the flaws of others and, as a result, paint a realistic and hilarious portrait of what it’s like to be an adult in today’s world.” — Library Journal.
Riverhead • 288 pp. • 978-1-59448-519-0 • $15.00

Jeanne Darst
FICTION RUINED MY FAMILY
A memoir of a family haunted by its own myths, in which the father’s dreams of being a writer created an eccentric model for his daughter. “Reads like a script for performance art, a rapid stand-up routine...yet genuine pain is explored—for the dangerous ambitions of fame and achievement and the really dangerous distractions of carelessness with loved ones.” — The San Francisco Chronicle. “The wisecracking, ultrahip but ultimately tragic voice...is fetching and fast and fun, and it’s only after you fully understand the trauma at the heart of her family, the neglect that bordered on child abuse, that the sadness kicks in.” — The Chicago Tribune.

William Deresiewicz
A JANE AUSTEN EDUCATION
How Six Novels Taught Me About Love, Friendship, and the Things That Really Matter
The author never thought Austen’s novels would have anything to offer him, but when he is assigned to read Emma, he begins viewing the world through her eyes—and discovers that the people in his life develop the depth and richness of literary characters. “Offers a refreshingly clear cultural and historical reading of each novel, and the combination of the scholarly and the personal provides entirely new ways of looking at novels that I thought I already thoroughly knew. This is how ‘literary memoir’ should be defined—not as a fake autobiography, but as a personal account of reading books that matter.” — Associated Press.

Lou Ureneck
CABIN
Two Brothers, a Dream, and Five Acres in Maine

After the losses of his job, marriage, and mother, the author buys five acres in Maine and asks his younger brother to help him build a cabin. "Ureneck isn’t simply writing about building a cabin; he is writing a deeper story about love and loss, home and family, and how two brothers, long separated, were able to renew their powerful bond between them.”—Gay Talese, author of The Kingdom and the Power.

Thomas Chatterton Williams
LOSING MY COOL

Love, Literature, and a Black Man’s Escape from the Crowd

The first of his generation to measure the seductive power of hip-hop against its restrictive worldview, Williams portrays the allure and the danger of rap culture, and recounts how his growing love of books—and bond with his father—became his salvation. “Reads like the early diaries of a budding philosopher or sociologist, roles Williams is more than equipped to take on.”—Oxford American. “This is more than a coming-of-age story; it is an awakening, as Williams blends Dostoyevsky and Jay-Z in a compelling memoir and analysis of urban youth culture.”—Booklist.

WHERE GOOD IDEAS COME FROM
The Natural History of Innovation
In his infectious, culturally omnivorous style, using his fluency in fields from neurobiology to popular culture, Johnson provides the complete, exciting, and encouraging story of how we generate the ideas that push our careers, our lives, our society, and our culture forward. “Johnson is the Darwin of technology. Through fascinating observations and insights, he enlightens us about the origin of ideas. How do you create environments and networks that promote innovation? Johnson discovers patterns that help clarify that critical question.” —Walter Isaacson, author of Einstein: His Life and Universe.

IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD
The Search for Community on an American Street, One Sleepover at a Time
"This book will awaken your inner sociologist....An inspirational reminder that for all our collective bemoaning about the loss of community, the solution is only a knock on the door away,"—Keith N. Hampton, U. of Pennsylvania. "After a tragic murder-suicide in his neighborhood, Lovenheim feels compelled to learn if closer relationships among neighbors might have saved a woman from death. The cultural study that follows is as much about sociology as it is about simple friendship as Lovenheim wonders why people can live side-by-side and know literally nothing about each other."—Booklist.

Professor X
IN THE BASEMENT
THE TRUTH ABOUT COLLEGE
A controversial book that crystallized the current debate over the value and purpose of a college education, written by a professor of English literature and composition. “An indictment of American education at two levels: the high schools, for processing students who too often leave, diplomas in hand, with little better than ninth-grade educations, and the colleges, for the institutional greed that inspires them to matriculate ever more marginally qualified students while educating them on the cheap with part-time instructors of wildly varying competence.” —The Washington Post.

Join the
PENGUIN GROUP (USA)
College Faculty Information Service

Penguin Group (USA) offers course adoption assistance as near as your phone or computer. Over the past few years, the College Faculty Information Service has grown to cover a wide range of fine titles from all Penguin Group (USA) imprints in a continuing effort to offer personalized service to college professors and enhance information provided by our college reps in the field.

HOW THE SERVICE WORKS

Any assistant, associate, adjunct, or full professor who teaches in the United States and regularly adopts paperbacks is invited to join the Penguin Group (USA) College Faculty Information Service. Simply complete and return the questionnaire on the next page, and we’ll send you catalogs relevant to your courses and ordering information. Thereafter, you can contact us anytime to discuss appropriate titles and free exam copy choices.

HOW THE PROGRAM WILL HELP YOU

Through CFIS, you’ll receive information on new and forthcoming books of interest to you and free exam copies for possible course adoption. Our representative will be glad to review Penguin Group (USA)’s extensive backlist—an invaluable aid in developing new courses, and answer any questions about our titles that you may have. We’re available to discuss not only current titles but your ideas on books that you’d like to see Penguin publish. We value your suggestions—they assist us in acquiring books that are most relevant to you as educators.

INTERESTED?

Look through this catalog and note the outstanding books and low prices that have made Penguin Group (USA) the first choice of educators. Then fill out the questionnaire and send it to us.

The questionnaire is also available on our website:

http://www.penguin.com/facinfo

It’s the first step to a collaborative process that will help you select the best books (at the best prices) for your courses.
PENGUIN GROUP (USA)
College Faculty Information Service Questionnaire

Yes, I am an assistant, associate, adjunct, or full professor in a U.S. university or college and want to take part in PENGUIN GROUP (USA)’s College Faculty Information Service. I participate in decision making and agree that the purpose of requesting examination copies is to consider them for adoption in the courses I teach.
