THIS IS HOW YOU LOSE HER
JUNOT DÍAZ
The Pulitzer Prize winner tenders another masterly collection of stories that capture the heat of new passion, the recklessness with which we betray what we most treasure, and the torture we go through to try to mend what we’ve broken beyond repair.

THE RIME OF THE MODERN MARINER
NICK HAYES
A modern graphic adaptation of the Coleridge poem. “Shelley said of Coleridge that he was a ‘hooded eagle among blinking owls’: Nick Hayes is all unfettered eagle hiply here to raise us from our ecological stupor. A righteous resonant work and so sad, it’s got to make you mad.”—Joy Williams, author of The Quick and the Dead, finalist for the Pulitzer Prize.

SAN MIGUEL
T. C. BOYLE
On a tiny, desolate, windswept island off the coast of Southern California, two families, one in the 1880s and one in the 1930s, come to start new lives.

PEACHES FOR FATHER FRANCIS
JOANNE HARRIS
When Vianne Rocher receives a letter from beyond the grave, she has no choice but to return to Lansenquenet, the beautiful French village where she once opened a chocolate shop.

THE RIME OF THE MODERN MARINER

A WORKING THEORY OF LOVE
SCOTT HUTCHINS
“[This] wonderful new novel is right on the border of what is possible: a computer is programmed to be the reincarnation of the narrator’s dead father, and the narrator, a charming thirty-something American, learns what it is to be human and to love. The book is brilliantly observant about the way we live now, and its comic and haunting story will stay lodged in the reader’s memory.”—Charles Baxter, author of The Feast of Love.

MAY WE BE FORGIVEN
A.M. HOMIS
Harold Silver has spent a lifetime watching his younger brother, George, acquire a covetable wife, two kids, and a beautiful home in the suburbs of New York City. Then an act of violence hurls both into entirely new lives. “This novel starts at maximum force—and then it really gets going. I can’t remember when I last read a novel of such narrative intensity; an unflinching account of a catastrophic, violent, black-comic, transformative year in the history of one broken American family. Flat-out amazing.”—Salman Rushdie.

NEW ZADIE SMITH
Thirty years after making it out of a London housing project, Leah, Natalie, Felix, and Nathan find themselves living mere streets apart but occupying separate worlds. Depicts the modern urban zone in a tragicomic novel as mercurial as the city itself.
