Streetfight: Handbook for an Urban Revolution
by Janette Sadik-Khan and Seth Solomonow

How to make streets function not through reconstruction but through the reallocation of space, with wildly successful results in New York City. A handbook written with the intensity and energy of a city in transit.

“Sadik-Khan manages to be equal parts Jane Jacobs and Robert Moses.”
—New York Magazine

In this essential guide to the region and its politics, Dan Smith unravels the history of Staten Island, NY

Excellent Daughters: The Secret Lives of Young Women Who Are Transforming the Arab World
by Kate Ascher

For more than a decade, Zoepf has traveled throughout the Arab world, reporting on the lives of women in this long-suppressed generation. She brings us an up-close understanding of the modern Middle East as she tells the never-before-reported story of a generation of women who are questioning authority, changing societies, and leading revolutions.

“Takes us behind the veil—exploring the lives, experiences, and beliefs of young Muslim women in rapidly changing societies across the Middle East....Offer[s] insights into the modern Arab world that countless treatises on ‘the politics of Islam’ or ‘the future of the modern Middle East’ are missing.”
—Anne-Marie Slaughter, President and CEO, New America, and Director of Policy Planning, U.S. Department of State

The Two-State Delusion
by Padraig O’Malley

A leading reconciliation expert argues that a two-state solution is no longer a viable path to peace in Israel and Palestine. He’s not only delved deeply into the literature; he’s also interviewed dozens of participants on both sides. O’Malley demonstrates why a two-state solution is impractical given the costs, Palestine’s political disunity, changing demographics, Israel’s political shift to the right, and global warming’s effect on the water supply.

“Using gorgeous graphics and clear, simple, language, Ascher explains the infrastructure and engineering marvels around us.”
—Slate.com

Renegade Farmers and the Future of Food in America
by Lentil Underground

In colorful graphics, Ovenden traces the cartographic history of mass transit using rare and historic maps, diagrams, and engineering marvels around us. The first and only comprehensive collection of historical and current maps of every rapid-transit system on earth.

“Sadik-Khan manages to be equal parts Jane Jacobs and Robert Moses.”
—New York Magazine

The Secret Lives of Young Women Who Are Transforming the Arab World
by Kate Ascher

For more than a decade, Zoepf has traveled throughout the Arab world, reporting on the lives of women in this long-suppressed generation. She brings us an up-close understanding of the modern Middle East as she tells the never-before-reported story of a generation of women who are questioning authority, changing societies, and leading revolutions.

“Takes us behind the veil—exploring the lives, experiences, and beliefs of young Muslim women in rapidly changing societies across the Middle East....Offer[s] insights into the modern Arab world that countless treatises on ‘the politics of Islam’ or ‘the future of the modern Middle East’ are missing.”
—Anne-Marie Slaughter, President and CEO, New America, and Director of Policy Planning, U.S. Department of State

The Way to Go: Moving by Sea, Land, and Air
by Mark Ovenden

With stunning visuals and encyclopedic insight, the Columbia University urban development professor reveals how humans move across the globe by land, sea, and air. Meticulously researched, The Way to Go explains the complex and largely invisible network of global transportation, as well as the systems and technologies that keep the machines running. From emergency communication networks that can transmit data to air traffic control to fiber-optic cables that transmit data to the Internet, the systems are increasingly riven world into useful—and often illuminating—context. Kissinger’s writing functions like a powerful zoom lens, opening out to give us a panoramic view of international order despite divergent historical perspectives, violent conflict, proliferating technologies, and engineering marvels around us. The first and only comprehensive collection of historical and current maps of every rapid-transit system on earth.

Janette Sadik-Khan and Seth Solomonow

Streetfight: Handbook for an Urban Revolution
by Janette Sadik-Khan and Seth Solomonow

How to make streets function not through reconstruction but through the reallocation of space, with wildly successful results in New York City. A handbook written with the intensity and energy of a city in transit.

“Sadik-Khan manages to be equal parts Jane Jacobs and Robert Moses.”
—New York Magazine

In this essential guide to the region and its politics, Dan Smith unravels the history of Staten Island, NY

Excellent Daughters: The Secret Lives of Young Women Who Are Transforming the Arab World
by Kate Ascher

For more than a decade, Zoepf has traveled throughout the Arab world, reporting on the lives of women in this long-suppressed generation. She brings us an up-close understanding of the modern Middle East as she tells the never-before-reported story of a generation of women who are questioning authority, changing societies, and leading revolutions.

“Takes us behind the veil—exploring the lives, experiences, and beliefs of young Muslim women in rapidly changing societies across the Middle East....Offer[s] insights into the modern Arab world that countless treatises on ‘the politics of Islam’ or ‘the future of the modern Middle East’ are missing.”
—Anne-Marie Slaughter, President and CEO, New America, and Director of Policy Planning, U.S. Department of State

The Two-State Delusion
by Padraig O’Malley

A leading reconciliation expert argues that a two-state solution is no longer a viable path to peace in Israel and Palestine. He’s not only delved deeply into the literature; he’s also interviewed dozens of participants on both sides. O’Malley demonstrates why a two-state solution is impractical given the costs, Palestine’s political disunity, changing demographics, Israel’s political shift to the right, and global warming’s effect on the water supply.

“Using gorgeous graphics and clear, simple, language, Ascher explains the infrastructure and engineering marvels around us.”
—Slate.com

Renegade Farmers and the Future of Food in America
by Lentil Underground

In colorful graphics, Ovenden traces the cartographic history of mass transit using rare and historic maps, diagrams, and engineering marvels around us. The first and only comprehensive collection of historical and current maps of every rapid-transit system on earth.

“Sadik-Khan manages to be equal parts Jane Jacobs and Robert Moses.”
—New York Magazine

The Secret Lives of Young Women Who Are Transforming the Arab World
by Kate Ascher

For more than a decade, Zoepf has traveled throughout the Arab world, reporting on the lives of women in this long-suppressed generation. She brings us an up-close understanding of the modern Middle East as she tells the never-before-reported story of a generation of women who are questioning authority, changing societies, and leading revolutions.

“Takes us behind the veil—exploring the lives, experiences, and beliefs of young Muslim women in rapidly changing societies across the Middle East....Offer[s] insights into the modern Arab world that countless treatises on ‘the politics of Islam’ or ‘the future of the modern Middle East’ are missing.”
—Anne-Marie Slaughter, President and CEO, New America, and Director of Policy Planning, U.S. Department of State

The Way to Go: Moving by Sea, Land, and Air
by Mark Ovenden

With stunning visuals and encyclopedic insight, the Columbia University urban development professor reveals how humans move across the globe by land, sea, and air. Meticulously researched, The Way to Go explains the complex and largely invisible network of global transportation, as well as the systems and technologies that keep the machines running. From emergency communication networks that can transmit data to air traffic control to fiber-optic cables that transmit data to the Internet, the systems are increasingly riven world into useful—and often illuminating—context. Kissinger’s writing functions like a powerful zoom lens, opening out to give us a panoramic view of international order despite divergent historical perspectives, violent conflict, proliferating technologies, and engineering marvels around us. The first and only comprehensive collection of historical and current maps of every rapid-transit system on earth.
NEW TITLES • GEOGRAPHY

JANETTE SADIK-KHAN and SETH SOLOMONOW
Streetfight: Handbook for an Urban Revolution
New York City’s traffic-transformation campaign—support or in opposition. Six tales, ten livable cities—cause a ruckus for rebuilding, reimagining, and rethinking cities. Reading the city into components, Streetfight demonstrates how to approach gridlock and grid failure and makes a case for moving beyond the world’s acute road problems.

LIZ CARLISLE
Lentil Underground
Bengaluru Farmers and the Future of Food in Aman
A portrait of Michael Pollan shares the story of a group of Montana farmers who used grassroots organizing techniques to defeat corporate agribusiness and launch a sustainable farm-to-table movement based on a radically different crop—organic lentils.

KATHERINE ZOEPPF
Excellent Daughters
The Secret Lives of Young Women Who Are Transforming the Arab World
"Takes us behind the veil—exploring the lives, experiences, and beliefs of young Muslim women in rapidly changing societies across the Middle East....Offer[s] insights into the modern Arab world that...match. "—Anne-Marie Slaughter, President and CEO, New America, and Director of Policy Planning, U.S. Department of State

MARK OVENDEN
Transit Maps of the World: Expanded and Updated Edition
The first-ever book that explores the history of mass transit across the globe. In colorful graphics, Ovenden traces the cartographic history of mass transit using rare and historic maps, diagrams, and engineering marvels around the world. From ancient Rome to present-day systems, Transit Maps of the World is the first and only comprehensive collection of historical and current maps of every rapid-transit system on earth.

PENGUIN PUBLISHING GROUP
For more than a decade, Ovenden has traveled throughout the Arab world, reporting on the lives of women in countries across the region. Excellent Daughters offers new understanding of the modern Middle East as she tells the never-before-reported story of a generation of women who are transforming their countries from within.

HENRY KISSINGER
World Order
For a century, Henry Kissinger has been the leading intellectual authority on the world stage. His new book is his most ambitious undertaking, the result of a lifetime of thought and writing on political and international affairs. World Order is a grand account of the past century and a master narrative for the twenty-first. Kissinger studies the trends in the world and provides the first coherent account of the forces that have shaped the new global order.

PENGUIN PUBLISHING GROUP
WWW.PENGUIN.COM/FACINFO
Our College Faculty Information Service (CFIS) at: assistance in selecting titles for your courses, sign up for PENGUIN PUBLISHING GROUP
PENGUIN PAPERBACK • 176 PAGES • 978-0-14-312849-6 • $35.00