STEPHEN YAFA
Grain of Truth: Why Eating Wheat Can Improve Your Health
Blood-boosting science, bounty Biology, economics, and nutrition. Yafo dives into controversies such as ancient grains, gluten sensitivity, and the possibility of aquaculture, and offers impassioned health and environmental arguments to make us think about how our food is grown and processed in the industrial food system.

LUCIE B. AMUNDSEN
Locally Laid
How We Built a Plaza, Industry-Changing Egg Farm—From Scratch
This story of a Hallowe’en family’s radical animal experience is a commercial coup, says How We Built a Plaza, and amazing tale of how to birth, farm, feed and fly a business.

JANETTE SADIK-KHAN and PEREY LOPEZ
Streetfight: Handbook for an Urban Revolution
From New York City’s former transportation commissioner comes a guide for rethinking and reinvigorating cities. With step-by-step visuals and pointers on how to add bike paths, improve crosswalks, and reduce speeding, Sadik-Khan shares her approach to transforming streets into safe, dynamic spaces for pedestrians and bikers.

STEPHEN YAFA
Modified: Genes and the Future of the American Diet
In this nuanced examination of the state of our food system, a prominent environmental journalist takes a fresh look at GMOs, investigates the controversy behind them, and provides a guide for consumers looking to make informed choices about their diet.

CARL ITTIS
The Unsettlers: In Search of the Good Life in Today’s America
In this history of the tree in American cities over two centuries, Jonnes shares stories about the simple life through the stories of new pioneers—homesteaders, horticulturists, urban gardeners, and organic farmers. Jonnes developed better ways to live in our overdeveloped world.

JILL JONNES
Urban Forests: A Natural History of Trees and People in the American Cityscape
An immersive journey through the forested history of the American city. Jonnes explores the search for a better human existence. Through their captivating stories, Jonnes imagines a sustainable, ethical, authentic future.

LUCIE B. AMUNDSEN
Lentil Underground
Locally Laid
This story of a Hallowe’en family’s radical animal experience is a commercial coup, says How We Built a Plaza, and amazing tale of how to birth, farm, feed and fly a business.

AVERY PAPERBACK • 320 PAGES • 978-1-59240-956-3 • $16.00

JANETTE SADIK-KHAN and PEREY LOPEZ
Streetfight: Handbook for an Urban Revolution
From New York City’s former transportation commissioner comes a guide for rethinking and reinvigorating cities. With step-by-step visuals and pointers on how to add bike paths, improve crosswalks, and reduce speeding, Sadik-Khan shares her approach to transforming streets into safe, dynamic spaces for pedestrians and bikers.

JILL JONNES
Urban Forests: A Natural History of Trees and People in the American Cityscape
An immersive journey through the forested history of the American city. Jonnes explores the search for a better human existence. Through their captivating stories, Jonnes imagines a sustainable, ethical, authentic future.

LUCIE B. AMUNDSEN
Lentil Underground
Locally Laid
This story of a Hallowe’en family’s radical animal experience is a commercial coup, says How We Built a Plaza, and amazing tale of how to birth, farm, feed and fly a business.

AVERY PAPERBACK • 320 PAGES • 978-1-59240-956-3 • $16.00

JANETTE SADIK-KHAN and PEREY LOPEZ
Streetfight: Handbook for an Urban Revolution
From New York City’s former transportation commissioner comes a guide for rethinking and reinvigorating cities. With step-by-step visuals and pointers on how to add bike paths, improve crosswalks, and reduce speeding, Sadik-Khan shares her approach to transforming streets into safe, dynamic spaces for pedestrians and bikers.

JILL JONNES
Urban Forests: A Natural History of Trees and People in the American Cityscape
An immersive journey through the forested history of the American city. Jonnes explores the search for a better human existence. Through their captivating stories, Jonnes imagines a sustainable, ethical, authentic future.
To identify the health benefits of a grain-rich diet and uncover a possible culprit behind gluten intolerance: the way grain is milled and processed by industrial manufacturers. Blending science, history, biology, economics, and nutrition, Yafa draws on interviews with scientists, gluten-sensitive individuals, and others to explore how changes to the grain industry have contributed to the rise of gluten-related illness and presents a new vision for a sustainable, secure, and ethical food system.

Modified

MCKAY JENKINS

In this nuanced examination of the state of our food system, a prominent environmental journalist takes a fresh look at the modern food industry and the controversy behind them, and provides a guide for consumers looking to make informed choices about their diet.

“[A] balanced account of the contentious role of GMOs in the U.S. food supply....Pro- and anti-GMO professionals will find much to argue about in this revealing and well-researched chronicle.”—Kirkus Reviews

The Unsettlers

JILL JONNES

Urban Forests: A Natural History of Trees and People in the American Cityscape

STEPHEN YAFA

In this history of the tree in American cities over two centuries, Jonnes shares stories about the trees that shaped American cities and the people who tried to save them. Jonnes draws on interviews with scientists, landscape architects, and historians to explore how the city’s tree canopy has been shaped by the needs of the times and the desire to create urban green spaces.

“Urban Forests is a fascinating read about the relationship between trees and American cities.”—NPR

The Wall Street Journal

JANETTE SADIK-KHAN and

MARK SUNDEEN

Trespassing Across America: One Man’s Epic, Grassroots Organizing and the Struggle to Make Across the Heartland

SUNDEEN, Mark

A memoir in which an environmental activist and journalist explores the search for a more sustainable, ethical, and authentic future.

“The Unsettlers isn’t in the business of guilt or shame mongering, but it will certainly make you question how you live in the world.”—Leslie Jamison, author of The Empathy Exams

“Rigorously reported and utterly enthralling….Mark Sundeen profiles pioneers who have developed better ways to live in our overdeveloped world.”—The Wall Street Journal

A Natural History of Trees and People in the American Cityscape

Eaarth

STEPHEN YAFA

In this examination of the state of our food system, a prominent environmental journalist takes a fresh look at the modern food industry and the controversy behind them, and provides a guide for consumers looking to make informed choices about their diet.

“[A] balanced account of the contentious role of GMOs in the U.S. food supply....Pro- and anti-GMO professionals will find much to argue about in this revealing and well-researched chronicle.”—Kirkus Reviews

Blue Rider Press

“Urban Forests is a fascinating read about the relationship between trees and American cities.”—NPR

Sunstein, Cass R.

“Trespassing Across America: One Man’s Epic, Grassroots Organizing and the Struggle to Make Across the Heartland

Sundeen, Mark

“A Natural History of Trees and People in the American Cityscape

Eaarth

Stephen YaFa

In this examination of the state of our food system, a prominent environmental journalist takes a fresh look at the modern food industry and the controversy behind them, and provides a guide for consumers looking to make informed choices about their diet.

“[A] balanced account of the contentious role of GMOs in the U.S. food supply....Pro- and anti-GMO professionals will find much to argue about in this revealing and well-researched chronicle.”—Kirkus Reviews

Blue Rider Press

“Urban Forests is a fascinating read about the relationship between trees and American cities.”—NPR

Sunstein, Cass R.
Sometimes people ask me why activists oppose GMO crops. This book provides as clear and detailed an answer as I’ve seen. No matter your take on this issue, you’ll want to read and consider Modified.

JANETTE SADI-KHAN and SETH SOLOMONOW
Streetfight: How we can Reclaim the Streets
From New York’s former transportation commissioner comes a guide for rethinking our streets and reinvigorating cities. With step-by-step visuals and pointers on how to add bike paths, improve crosswalks, and reduce speeding, Sadik-Khan shares her approach to transforming streets into safe, dynamic spaces for pedestrians and bikers.

KEN ILLUNAS
Trespassing Across America: One Man’s Epic, Never-Done-Before (and Sort of Illegal) Hike Across the Heartland
A tribute to the Great Plains and the people who live there, this account of one man’s journey along the proposed Keystone XL route explores difficult questions about fossil fuels, climate change, and the meaning of freedom.

MARC KUNG
The Unsettlers: An Immersive Investigation Through the Heartland
An immersive journalism steeped in American social history, The Unsettlers: An Immersive Investigation Through the Heartland explores the search for legal land in the American West. From farmers who thought lentils were the answer and stuck with them until proved right. “—Marion Nestle, New York University

JILL JONNES
Urban Forests: A Natural History of Trees and People in the American Landscape
“Far-ranging and deeply researched, this glimpse of the role of trees in American life has developed far surpasses its low and small-minded portrait. The Courtesan looks like the winning. This is a valuable and elegant look at the trees and forests of the American landscape.” The Wall Street Journal

PUTNAM HARDCOVER • 352 PAGES • 978-0-399-17067-6 • $28.00

In this history of the tree in American cities over two centuries, Jonnes shares stories about the early sponsors of the U.S. urban forests and the effect tree-rich landscaping can have on commerce, crime, well-being, and climate change. “Far-ranging and deeply researched, this glimpse of the role of trees in American life has developed far surpasses its low and small-minded portrait. The Courtesan looks like the winning. This is a valuable and elegant look at the trees and forests of the American landscape.” The Wall Street Journal

The Sixth Extinction
Extols the many contributions that trees make to city life. “An authoritative...nontechnical account of the past, present, and future of our cities’ trees.” The Wall Street Journal

MARK SUNDEEN
The Unsettlers: In Search of the Good Life in Today’s America
Barrow’s power-packed insights into our current financial and environmental dilemma. The Courtesan looks like the winning. This is a valuable and elegant look at the trees and forests of the American landscape.” The Wall Street Journal

Riverhead Hardcover • 336 PAGES • 978-1-101-98730-6 • $26.00

In this history of the tree in American cities over two centuries, Jonnes shares stories about the early sponsors of the U.S. urban forests and the effect tree-rich landscaping can have on commerce, crime, well-being, and climate change. “Far-ranging and deeply researched, this glimpse of the role of trees in American life has developed far surpasses its low and small-minded portrait. The Courtesan looks like the winning. This is a valuable and elegant look at the trees and forests of the American landscape.” The Wall Street Journal

For complimentary examination copies and personalized assistance in selecting titles for your courses, sign up for Academic Marketing Department

375 Hudson Street
New York, NY 10014-3657

WWW.PENGUIN.COM/FACINFO
NEW TITLES • GEOGRAPHY

STEVEN HAHN
A Nation Without Borders
The United States and Its World as an Empire of Civil War, 1860–1910
THE PENGUIN HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES
ALL HARDCOVERS:
$30.00 (UK)

KATHERINE JOEZF
Excellent Daughters
The Second Lives of Young Women Who Are Transforming the Arab World
For more than a decade, Joseph has traveled throughout the Arab world, reporting on the lives of women like the second-generation Americans, the proprietors of the first women’s yoga centers in Jordan, or the first female obituary writers in Yemen. These women are risking their own safety and standing up for the women they love—questioning authority, changing societies, and fueling revolutions. Joseph’s skillful storytelling makes these women’s stories sing. This is the first book of its kind to highlight the voices of these women, who are otherwise not heard.

WINIFRED GALLAGHER
The First Post Office Created America: A History
Drawing on a rich body of legal, congressional, and biographical sources, Gallagher shows how the creation of the U.S. Postal Service was a landmark event in the struggle to ensure that the U.S. Constitution would be enforced in the nation’s territories. It is the first attempt to explain the establishment of this institution as a foundational moment of national independence.

RICHARD HAASS
A World in Disarray
American Foreign Policy and the Crisis of the Old Order
The election of Donald Trump and the vote for “Brexit,” argues Haass, signals that many should act abroad and proposes ways to address dysfunctional politics and mounting debt. What Hath God Wrought
The cómo of the American experience. —Sven Beckert, author of "The British Empire and the Rise of America"

DOMINIC ZIEGLER
Istanbul: City of Majesty at the Crossroads of the World
From the palace of the Byzantine emperors to the mosques of the Ottoman sultans, Istanbul has been a city of religious and cultural diversity. Today, it is a city of 15 million that is home to many of the world’s cultural treasures. This book is a history of the city that has been a center of power for centuries.

THOMAS F. MADDEN
Istanbul: City of Majesty at the Crossroads of the World
The first single-volume history of Istanbul in decades: a biography of the city at the center of the world — and in the center of history.

SEAN MEEKEEN
The Ottoman Endgame
The War of the Balkans, 1912–1913
The war that ended the Ottoman Empire and transformed the Balkans into modern nation-states.

JERRY BROTTON
The Sultan and the Queen
The United Story of Istanbul and Istan
Braving the Istanbul Times, the author tells the story of the city and the people who have shaped it. From the Ottoman Empire to the modern-day metropolis, Istanbul has been a hub of cultural and economic activity. This is a story of resilience and innovation, a story of how Istanbul has survived and thrived.

YEONMI PARK with MARYANNE VOLLERS
In Order to Live
A North Korean Girl’s Journey to Freedom
In 2007, Yeonmi Park escaped from North Korea with her older brother and sister. They have since published their story in their own book, which has been translated into 27 languages and has sold over a million copies. The book has been made into a film and has received critical acclaim. This is a story of survival and hope.

STEVE INSKEEP
Diplomatic Dirt
President Obama, the U.S. foreign service, and the rise of a new world order
In this new book, Inskoop provides a comprehensive look at how the U.S. foreign service has evolved over the past century and how it has adapted to the changing needs of the world. He explores the roles of individual diplomats and their impact on global events, and highlights the importance of leadership and vision in shaping foreign policy.